

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation by corporate partisans.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. The Sinclair corporation's use of the public airwaves for propaganda shows why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. We who are disgusted with such high-handedness will will continue to make our objections heard.
